

Case Study from: HIV Transmission Risk Behaviors Among Individuals Who Are HIV Infected and Were Recently Released From Jail – Part I

Case Study

- Steve is a 25 year-old African-American male you are seeing for the first time.
- Released 3 months ago from jail, where he was diagnosed with HIV.
- CD4 count and viral load were measured while he was incarcerated.
- Did not receive results prior to his release but was told by the nurse to take Bactrum.
- Reports trouble taking the Bactrum regularly.
- His partner is expecting a child in 7 months.
- This is Steve's first child and he plans to be a very involved Dad in his child's life.

